

Ancillary Events guidelines

EADV is aware that during the EADV Congress, industries and other organizations need to organize meetings, events or other activities, for purposes ranging from investigator meetings to providing social and business opportunities for firm employees and meeting attendees.

Online and non-online ancillary activities, including business meetings, social gatherings, receptions, workshops, committee meetings and media events should not compete with the Congress official meetings, industry sessions or any other official Congress events.

During the EADV Congress, the below blackout hours apply:

Wednesday	22.09.2027	08:00 – 19:30
Thursday	23.09.2027	07:00 – 19:30
Friday	24.09.2027	07:00 – 19:30
Saturday	25.09.2027	08:00 – 17:30

Ancillary activities organized during the blackout hours must meet the following criteria:

- The activity or event must take place in one of the meeting rooms or industry lounges provided by EADV for a fee inside the Congress venue or inside the EADV Virtual Platform.
- The activity or event cannot take place in any other onsite or virtual locations than the above-mentioned rooms.
- Marketing pieces, invitations, communications or advertisement of the meeting is allowed only in digital format as per EADV advertisement rules.
- EADV logo may be used prior written approval of EADV and by returning the completed and signed logo form available on the here.

Ancillary activities organized outside of the blackout hours:

- The activity or event must comply with meeting blackout times and be scheduled as to permit attendees sufficient time to participate in official meeting activities and sessions. Please see above for times at which ancillary meetings are not allowed.
- No marketing pieces, invitations, communications of any kind, advertising, or other written or spoken descriptions of the event may use the EADV name or logo or otherwise suggest or imply that EADV has endorsed or sponsored the event. The name of the EADV meeting may be mentioned one time in each communication for identification purposes. EADV or the name of the Conference may not be part of a title or heading of the ancillary event, be obviously presented, or listed first in print materials.
- For onsite activities, meeting signage may NOT include the EADV name, logo, or name of the Congress.
- No event marketing may be done at the EADV meeting venue. Distribute or display signs, flyers, invitations, or use other means of advertising the event is strictly forbidden.

Organizers not complying with the Ancillary Events Guidelines will be notified by EADV and a penalty fee may be applied.
